

Subject: OCR Creative iMedia

Year Group: 10

Term One

Unit R082 – Digital Graphics

LO1 - Understand the purpose and properties of digital graphics – you will study the different types of graphics and their properties. You will learn how and why digital graphics are used. LO2 - Plan the creation of digital graphics – you will plan and design a digital graphic for a defined target audience and purpose. You will learn how to use different planning and design tools effectively. LO3- Create and save digital graphics – you will create the digital graphic you have designed using a variety of software techniques. LO4 - Review the digital graphic - you will review the digital graphic you have produced against the original requirement, target audience and purpose.

Term Two

Unit RO88 - Creating Digital Sound

LO1 - Understand the uses and properties of digital sound – you will learn about how and why digital sound is used. You will gain an understanding of the properties of sound files. LO2- Be able to plan a digital sound sequence - you will plan and design a digital sound for a defined target audience and purpose. You will learn how to use different planning and design tools effectively. LO3 - Be able to create a digital sound sequence - you will create the digital graphic you have designed using a variety of software techniques.

Term Three

LO4 - Be able to review a digital sound sequence - you will review the digital sound you have produced against the original requirement, target audience and purpose.

Unit R087 – Creating Interactive Media Products

LO1 - Understand the purpose and properties of interactive products – you will learn about how and why interactive media products are used. You will gain an understanding of the properties of interactive media products. LO2 - Be able to plan the interactive multimedia product - you will plan and design an interactive media product for a defined target audience and purpose. You will learn how to use different planning and design tools effectively. LO3 - Be able to create interactive multimedia products – you will create the product.

